INDEX OF FIRST LINES

After those reverend papers, whose soule is 155
All haile sweet Poët, more full of more strong fire 147
All Kings, and all their favorites 14
Although thy hand and faith, and good workes too 59
As due by many titles I resigne 248
As the sweet sweat of Roses in a Still 65
As virtuous men passe mildly away 33
At once, from hence, my lines and I depart 149
At the round earths imagin'd corners, blow 250
Away thou fondling motley humorist 105

Batter my heart, three person'd God; for, you 252
Before I sigh my last gaspe, let me breath 38
Beyond th'old Pillers many have travailed 54
Blasted with sighs, and surrounded with teares 17
Blest are your North parts, for all this long time 155
Both rob'd of aire, we both lye in one ground 53
Busie old foole, unruly Sunne 4
By childrens births, and death, I am become 53
By miracles exceeding power of man 246
By our first strange and fatall interview 80

Come live with mee, and bee my love 31
Come, Madam, come, all rest my powers defie 86
Compassion in the world againe is bred 55

Deare love, for nothing lesse then thee 24
Death be not proud, though some have called thee 251
Death I recant, and say, unsaid by mee 216
Deigne at my hands this crown of prayer and praise 244

Eternall God, (for whom who ever dare 269
Even as lame things thirst their perfection, so 151

Faire, great, and good, since seeing you, wee see 167
 Faire soule, which wast, not onely, as all soules bee 208
 Father of Heaven, and him, by whom 260
 Father, part of his double interest 253
 Fond woman, which would'st have thy husband die 57
 For every houre that thou wilt spare mee now 5
 For Godsake hold your tongue, and let me love 6
 For the first twenty yeares, since yesterday 47

Goe, and catche a falling starre 1
 Good wee must love, and must hate ill 20

Haile Bishop Valentine, whose day this is 91
 Harke newes, oh envy, thou shalt heare descry'd 75
 Hast thee harsh verse, as fast as thy lame measure 148
 He is starke mad, who ever sayes 32
 He that cannot chuse but love 51
 Her of your name, whose fair inheritance 243
 Here take my Picture; though I bid farewell 62
 Here's no more newes, then vertue, 'I may as well 133
 Here where by All All Saints invoked are 165
 Honour is so sublime perfection 158
 How sits this citie, late most populous 273

I am a little world made cunningly 249
 I am two fooles, I know 8
 I am unable, yonder begger cries 53
 I can love both faire and browne 5
 I fixe mine eye on thine, and there 30
 I have done one braver thing 3
 I have learn'd by those lawes 207
 I long to talke with some old lovers ghost 36
 I never stoop'd so low, as they 46
 I presume you rather try what you can doe in me 220
 I scarce beleeve my love to be so pure 21
 I sing no harme good sooth to any wight 76
 I Sing the progresse of a deathlesse soule 224
 I wonder by my troth, what thou, and I 1
 If, as mine is, thy life a slumber be 151
 If faithfull soules be alike glorifi'd 250

- If in his Studie he hath so much care 54
 If poysonous mineralls, and if that tree 250
 If yet I have not all thy love 8
 If you from spoyle of th'old worlds farthest end 54
 I'll tell thee now (deare Love) what thou shalt doe 18
 Image of her whom I love, more then she 68
 Immensitie cloysterd in thy deare wombe 245
 In what torne ship soever I embarke 272
 Is not thy sacred hunger of science 154

 Kinde pittie chokes my spleene; brave scorn forbids 111
 Kindly I envy thy songs perfection 152
 Klockius so deeply hath sworne, ne'r more to come 55

 Language thou art too narrow, and too weake 218
 Let mans Soule be a Spheare, and then, in this 259
 Let me powre forth 25
 Like Esops fellow-slaves, O Mercury 55
 Like one who'in her third widdowhood doth professe 132
 Little think'st thou, poore flower 40
 Looke to mee faith, and looke to my faith, God 205
 Love, any devill else but you 22

 Mad paper stay, and grudge not here to burne 157
 Man is a lumpe, where all beasts kneaded bee 138
 Man is the World, and death th'Ocean 214
 Man to Gods image; Eve, to mans was made 144
 Marke but this flea, and marke in this 26
 Marry, and love thy Flavia, for, shee 58
 Moyst with one drop of thy blood, my dry soule 246
 Muse not that by thy mind thy body is led 150
 My fortune and my will this custome breake 222
 My name engrav'd herein 15

 Natures lay Ideot, I taught thee to love 64
 No Lover saith, I love, nor any other 48
 No Spring, nor Summer Beauty hath such grace 67
 Not that in colour it was like thy haire 69
 Nothing could make me sooner to confesse 190
 Now thou hast lov'd me one whole day 2

- O might those sighes and teares returne againe 248
 O Thou which to search out the secret parts 153
 Of that short Roll of friends writ in my heart 153
 Oh doe not die, for I shall hate 11
 Oh, let mee not serve so, as those men serve 63
 Oh my blacke Soule! now thou art summoned 248
 Oh, to vex me, contraryes meet in one 254
 Oh to what height will love of greatnesse drive 122
 Once, and but once found in thy company 60
 Others at the Porches and entries of their Buildings 223
 Our storme is past, and that storms tyrannous rage 127
 Out of a fired ship, which, by no way 53
- Philo, with twelve yeares study, hath beene griev'd 55
 Pregnant again with th'old twins Hope, and Feare 148
- Reason is our Soules left hand, Faith her right 135
- Salute the last and everlasting day 247
 Salvation to all that will is nigh 244
 See Sir, how as the Suns hot Masculine flame 243
 Send home my long strayd eyes to mee 28
 Send me some token, that my hope may live 50
 Shee's dead; And all which die 44
 Show me deare Christ, thy spouse, so bright and clear 254
 Since Christ embrac'd the Crosse it selfe, dare I 255
 Since I am comming to that Holy roome 286
 Since she must go, and I must mourn, come Night 72
 Since she whom I lov'd hath payd her last debt 254
 Sir, more then kisses, letters mingle Soules 128
 Sir; though (I thanke God for it) I do hate 108
 Sleep sleep old Sun, thou canst not have repast 257
 So, so, breake off this last lamenting kisse 47
 Some man unworthy to be possessor 23
 Some that have deeper digg'd loves Myne then I 26
 Sorrow, who to this house scarce knew the way 219
 Sorrow, who to this house scarce knew the way 223
 Spit in my face you Jewes, and pierce my side 251
 Stand still, and I will read to thee 50
 Sweetest love, I do not goe 9

- Take heed of loving mee 46
 Tamely, fraile body, 'abstaine to day; to day 257
 That I might make your Cabinet my tombe 222
 That unripe side of earth, that heavy clime 160
 T'have written then, when you writ, seem'd to mee 140
 The heavens rejoyce in motion, why should I 81
 The Sun-beames in the East are spread 94
 This is my playes last scene, here heavens appoint 249
 This twilight of two yeares, not past nor next 142
 Thou art not so black, as my heart 45
 Thou hast made me, And shall thy worke decay? 247
 Thou in the fields walkst out thy supping howers 55
 Thou shalt not laugh in this leafe, Muse, nor they 120
 Thou which art I, ('tis nothing to be soe) 125
 Thou, whose diviner soule hath caus'd thee now 270
 Though I be dead, and buried, yet I have 164
 Thy father all from thee, by his last Will 54
 Thy flattering picture, Phryne, is like thee 54
 Thy friend, whom thy deserts to thee enchaines 150
 Thy sinnes and haire may no man equall call 54
 Till I have peace with thee, warr other men 87
 'Tis lost, to trust a Tombe with such a guest 184
 Tis the yeares midnight, and it is the dayes 29
 To make the doubt cleare, that no woman's true 78
 To what a combersome unweildinesse 37
 'Tis true, 'tis day; what though it be? 13
 Twice or thrice had I loved thee 12
 Two, by themselves, each other, love and feare 53
 Two soules move here, and mine (a third) must move 189

 Under an undermin'd, and shot-bruis'd wall 53
 Unseasonable man, statue of ice 97
 Upon this Primrose hill 42

 Well dy'd the World, that we might live to see 171
 Well; I may now receive, and die; My sinne 114
 Went you to conquer? and have so much lost 134
 What if this present were the worlds last night? 252
 When by thy scorne, O murdresse I am dead 32
 When I am dead, and Doctors know not why 44

- When I dyed last, and, Deare, I dye 10
When my grave is broke up againe 43
When that rich Soule which to her heaven is gone 172
Where is that holy fire, which Verse is said 89
Where, like a pillow on a bed 34
Whether that soule which now comes up to you 221
Whilst yet to prove 48
Who ever comes to shroud me, do not harme 40
Who ever guesses, thinks, or dreames he knowes 27
Who ever loves, if he do not propose 83
Who makes the Past, a patterne for next yeare 130
Why are wee by all creatures waited on? 252
Why this man gelded Martiall I muse 55
Wilt thou forgive that sinne where I begunne 287
Wilt thou love God, as he thee! then digest 253
With his kinde mother who partakes thy woe 245
With his kinde mother who partakes thy woe 245
- You have refin'd mee, and to worthyest things 136
You that are she and you, that's double shee 169
Your mistris, that you follow whores, still taxeth you 54
- Zealously my Muse doth salute all thee 149
